Components of Different Stroke Orders between Mainland and Taiwan

The following is a list of all the 32 components and 383 characters with similar forms but different stroke orders between the Taiwan standard of 常用國字標準字體筆順手冊 and the Mainland standards of 现代汉语通用字笔顺规范 and GB13000.1 字符集汉字笔顺规范. The components are sorted by the number of characters involved (Zhang and Cheung, 2013).

Pinyin

(Adapted from Wikipedia, at <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pinyin> )

Pinyin (Chinese: 拼音), or Hanyu Pinyin (漢語拼音|汉语拼音), is the official phonetic system for transcribing the Mandarin pronunciations of Chinese characters into the Latin alphabet in the People's Republic of China, Taiwan (Republic of China), and Singapore. It is often used to teach Standard Chinese and a pinyin without diacritic markers is often used in foreign publications to spell Chinese names familiar to non-Chinese and may be used as an input method to enter Chinese characters into computers.

The Hanyu Pinyin system was developed in the 1950s based on earlier forms of Romanization. It was published by the Chinese government in 1958 and revised several times. The International Organization for Standardization (ISO) adopted pinyin as an international standard in 1982. The system was adopted as the official standard in Taiwan in 2009, where it is used for Romanization alone rather than for educational and computer input purposes.

Initials and finals

Unlike European languages, clusters of letters – initials (声母; 聲母; shēngmǔ) and finals (韵母; 韻母; yùnmǔ) – and not consonant and vowel letters, form the fundamental elements in pinyin (and most other phonetic systems used to describe the Han language). Every Mandarin syllable can be spelled with exactly one initial followed by one final, except for the special syllable er or when a trailing -r is considered part of a syllable (see below).

Initials

In each cell below, the bold letters indicate pinyin and the brackets enclose the symbol in the International Phonetic Alphabet.

		Bilabial		Labiodental	Alveolar		Retroflex		Alveolo-palatal	Velar
		Voiceless	Voiced	Voiceless	Voiceless	Voiced	Voiceless	Voiced	Voiceless	Voiceless
Nasal			m [m]			n [n]
Plosive	Unaspirated	b [p]			d [t]					g [k]
	Aspirated	p [pʰ]			t [tʰ]					k [kʰ]
Affricate	Unaspirated				z [ts]		zh [tʃ]		j [tɕ]
	Aspirated				c [tsʰ]		ch [tʃʰ]		q [tɕʰ]
Fricative				f [f]	s [s]		sh [ʃ]	r [ʒ~ɻ] <sup>1</sup>	x [ç]	h [x]

<sup>1</sup> r may phonetically be [ʒ] (a voiced retroflex fricative) or [ɻ] (a retroflex approximant). This pronunciation varies among different speakers, and is not two different phonemes.

<sup>3</sup> the letters w and y are not included in the table of initials in the official pinyin system. They are an orthographic convention for the medials i, u and ü when no initial is present. When i, u or ü are finals and no initial is present, they are spelled yi, wu, and yu, respectively. The conventional order (excluding w and y), derived from the zhuyin system, is:

b p m f d t n l g k h j q x zh ch sh r z c s

Finals

Final	Nucleus	/a/					/ə/					∅
	Coda	∅	/i/	/u/	/n/	/ŋ/	∅	/i/	/u/	/n/	/ŋ/
Medial	∅	[ä] a -a	[ai] ai -ai	[aŋ] ao -ao	[än] an -an	[aŋ] ang -ang	[ua]	[ei] ei -ei	[ou] ou -ou	[ən] en -en	[ɚŋ] eng -eng	[i] -i <sup>1</sup> [aŋ] is written er. For other finals formed by the suffix -r, pinyin does not use special orthography; one simply appends r to the final that it is added to, without regard for any sound changes that may take place along the way. For information on sound changes related to final r, please see Erhua#Rules.

Tones

Tone	Tone Mark	Number added to end of syllable in place of tone mark	Example using tone mark	Example using number	IPA
First	macron ( ¯ )	1	mā	ma1	ma˥
Second	acute accent ( ´ )	2	má	ma2	ma˨˥
Third	caron ( ˇ )	3	mǎ	ma3	ma˨˨˥
Fourth	grave accent ( ` )	4	mà	ma4	ma˨˨˨
"Neutral"	No mark or dot before syllable ( · )	no number 5 0	ma ·ma	ma ma5 ma0	ma

Rules for placing the tone mark

Briefly, the tone mark should always be placed by the order—a, o, e, i, u, ü, with the only exception being iu, where the tone mark is placed on the u instead. Pinyin tone marks appear primarily above the nucleus of the syllable, for example as in kuài, where k is the initial, u the medial, a the nucleus, and i the coda.

Jyutping

(Adapted from Wikipedia, at <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jyutping>.)

Jyutping (Chinese: 粵拼; Jyutping: jyut6 ping3; Cantonese pronunciation: [jyːt̚1 pʰɪŋ˥]), is a romanization system for Cantonese developed by the Linguistic Society of Hong Kong (LSHK) in 1993. Its formal name is The Linguistic Society of Hong Kong Cantonese Romanization Scheme.

The name Jyutping (itself the Jyutping romanization of its Chinese name, 粵拼) is a contraction consisting of the first Chinese characters of the terms Jyut6 jyu5 (粵語, meaning "Yue language") and ping3 jam1 (拼音 "phonetic alphabet").

- Only the finals m and ng can be used as standalone nasal syllables.

Tones

There are nine tones in six distinct tone contours in Cantonese. However, as three of the nine are entering tones (入聲, Jyutping: jap6 sing1), which only appear in syllables ending with p, t, and k, they do not have separate tone numbers in Jyutping (though they do in Cantonese Pinyin; these are shown in parentheses in the table below).

Pinyin-Stroke Order Index

This index includes all the 17,181 single-character words of simplified and traditional Chinese in the dictionary (including the cross-reference characters introduced in Preface). The characters are firstly sorted by Pinyin alphabetically, then by number of strokes ascendingly, and finally by stroke order in YES. To the right of a Chinese character, you can find its standard stroke order, which can be used to look up a word starting with that character in the dictionary. For convenience of lookup, a character with more than one form and/or pronunciation appears for each form and sound. For instance, there are four entries for character 长|長 in simplified and traditional forms, including cháng 长, cháng (長), zhǎng 长 and zhǎng (長).
